

EXECUTIVE LEADERSHIP

Albert Roberson LL.B., LL.M.

— Founder, CEO & Chairman of the Board

Albert Roberson is the Founder and Chief Executive Officer of Fractional Coordinator, where he leads the firm's strategy, operations, and civil rights practice. He also serves as Chairman of the Board, guiding the firm's long-term governance and growth.

Albert advises organizations at the intersection of compliance, governance, and organizational risk, with a practice that spans Title VI, Title VII, Title IX, the Americans with Disabilities Act, Section 504, and enterprise compliance. His work emphasizes building sustainable institutional infrastructure rather than reactive processes, helping leaders move from one-off responses to systems that endure.

He draws on more than a decade of coordinator experience across three institutions and executive leadership overseeing complex civil rights and compliance programs serving tens of thousands of students and employees. That frontline perspective shapes how he helps organizations strengthen accountability, improve decision-making, and reduce risk.

Albert has held senior leadership roles on both public and private college and university campuses, including institutions with populations of more than 20,000 students and employees. That firsthand experience navigating compliance at scale informs how he guides organizations on Title IX coordination, mandatory reporting, supportive measures, and the evolving post-vacatur regulatory landscape.

INVESTIGATIONS PRACTICE

Whitney Kenner-Jones Esq.

Chief of Investigations

Whitney Kenner-Jones is Chief of Investigations at Fractional Coordinator, where she leads the firm's investigations practice and provides strategic oversight for its investigative services and complex case portfolio.

She directs the organization's investigative standards and serves as a trusted advisor on high-risk matters across higher education, employment, and corporate compliance. Whitney oversees case assignment, investigative methodology, quality assurance, and complex investigative strategy, and she personally conducts the firm's most sensitive and high-stakes investigations, including those involving challenging factual and legal issues.

Her work covers external investigations, hearing logistics, and findings-memo writing, with particular attention to the appeal-and-reversal patterns emerging from federal enforcement. She brings more than twelve years of experience conducting investigations involving protected-category matters for both students and faculty or staff.

Whitney also serves as the lead instructor for the firm's Investigative Report Writing certification, training the next generation of practitioners in investigative work that is legally sound, impartial, and built to withstand scrutiny on appeal or review.
